Prolouge

A small fluffy body slid from under a box. Then there was a shape of a cat. "Someone needs you," the cat said to the small thing. The fluffy thing nodded. The cat ran off into the shadows.
The thing was a kitten.
The kitten was alone. The cat's words ran through the kitten's mind. Someone needs you. Did it mean the kitten needs to find who needs him? Or what else would it be?
He didn't know.
The kitten started to walk away.
But somehow something was pushing him back. Was he supposed to stay there!!?!?!?!???!
The kitten looked puzzled. Huh? What why am I supposed to stay here? Will the person who needs me find me or what? The kitten thought.
Then the next thing he knew was danger. Danger.....

Chapter one: Little Dan

"Jack Singerbell!!!"
"Yes, Ann?" Jack called out. Ann was Jack Singerbell's sister. She often called Jack for questions. He was not wondering what it was. Before his sister could ask the question, Jack called out, "I never know the answer to your questions, Anna, ask someone else."
"Okay," Anna said. She was very easy-going, as you can tell. Well she was 5 years old so she doesn't understand why people be so hard-going. Other than that, she totally understands how to mess up a conversation. If you talk and she asks a question all over again and again and you say "go away" Anna will mess up someone else conversation.
Jack ran out of his house. But what he saw when he got to the downtown part of the city in an ally way he couldn't believe.
A pack of dogs were attacking a kitten! Jack got out his knife and stabbed some dogs. The other dogs ran away. He saw a fluffy kitten with patches of white, orange, and black. The kitten had deep blue eyes. He picked up the kitten and gave it some fish treats he had saved from when he had a cat.
"I..Do i...Do you need me?" The kitten meowed. Jack almost dropped the kitten. He talked! "I'm sorry to scare you. 'Another cat' told me I needed someone..wait no it was someone needed me!" The kitten said.
Jack Singerbell asked, "do you have a name?"
The kitten said, "no."
Jack singer said, " I name you Little Dan."
